YEOMEN

- Overture
- When maiden loves, she sits and signs
- Tower warders, Under orders
- ~~When our gallant Norman foes~~
- ~~Alas! I waver to and fro~~
- Is life a boon?
- ~~Here's a man of jollity~~
- I have a song to sing, O!
- How say you, maiden, will you wed
- I've jibe and joke
- 'Tis done! I am a bride!
- Were I thy bride
- Oh, Sergeant Meryll, is it true
- Leonard! I beg your pardon?
- The prisoner comes to meet his doom
- ~~Astounding news! The prisoner fled!~~
- Night has spread her pall once more
- ~~Oh! a private buffoon is a light hearted loon~~
- Hereupon we're both agreed
- Free from his fetters grim
- Strange adventure!
- Hark! What was that, sir?
- ~~A man who would woo a fair maid~~
- ~~When a wooer goes a wooing~~
- Rapture, rapture!
- Comes the pretty young bride
- All thought of Leonard Meryll set aside
- Oh thoughtless crew!

GONDOLIERS

- Overture
- List and learn
- Good morrow, pretty maids
- Buon' giorno, Signorine!
- We're called gondolieri
- And now to choose our brides!
- Thank you, gallant gondolieri!
- ~~From the sunny Spanish shore~~
- ~~In enterprise of martial kind~~
- O rapture, when alone together
- There was a time
- I stole the Prince
- But, bless my heart / Try we life-long
- ~~Bridegroom and bride~~
- Kind sir, you cannot have the heart
- ~~Then one of us will be a Queen~~
- Now pray, what is the cause of this remarkable hilarity / For everyone who feels inclined
- Come let's away / Now, Marco dear
- ~~Then away we go to an island fair~~
- Of happiness the very pith
- ~~Rising early in the morning~~
- ~~Take a pair of sparkling eyes~~
- Here we are, at the risk of our lives
- Dance a cachucha
- There lived a King
- ~~In a contemplative fashion~~
- ~~With ducal pomp~~
- ~~On the day when I was wedded~~
- ~~To help unhappy commoners~~
- I am a courtier
- Here is a case unprecedented
- Now let the loyal lieges gather round
- ~~Once more gondolieri~~
